When Paul Scott, owner of Eden Audio, went home to unload his groceries and returned to his garage he discovered that his mobile DJ van was gone. Remembering his Networkcar system, he quickly logged into Networkcar's website and located his van. Shortly after placing a police report, the police were tracking Paul's van based on its GPS location. After only 15 minutes and a brief highway chase, the suspect was apprehended and the van and mobile DJ equipment were recovered.

“I don't normally think about my Networkcar system but since my van was recovered, I'm telling all my friends about it. I don't want anyone to experience the panic that goes through your mind when something bad like this happens. I'm glad that I rely on Networkcar.”

- Paul Scott, Eden Audio
